REACH CLIMAX IN STRUGGLE FOR STATE DIVISION

Reapportionment Measure is Made Special Order of Business Today

SACRAMENTO, April 22.—The battle for reapportionment throughout California, which had its inception during the early days of the present session of the Legislature, reached the climax this afternoon when the reapportionment bill was made a special order of business scheduled for 3 o'clock.

The Breed gasoline tax measure, which would add one cent to the present levy per gallon on gasoline sales in the state, the increased revenue to be used in building and improving highways, was made a special order of business for 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Assembly passed the optometry bill sponsored by the optometry board and the state board of medical examiners over the opposition of sixteen members who made a stubborn fight to defeat the measure.

By adoption in the Assembly this morning, Senator Ed P. Sample, San Diego, sees his constitutional amendment increasing state officials' pay go to the people at the 1926 general election.

Would Get Increase

The secretary of state, controller, treasurer and surveyor general are raised from $5000 to $7000. The attorney general and state superintendent of public instruction, who now receive $5000 per year, would be raised to $8000. The governor and lieutenant governor's salary remain the same.

Governor Richardson vetoed the Madera-Yosemite highway bill today, believing that resources for the present should be spent in completing the Merced highway into the valley by way of Briceburg and El Portal. He pointed out that if the Madera route were put in the state system at this time it would lose what county aid might be given it.

SOFIA BOMBS FIRST MOVE TO REVOLT

Bulgarian Government Hints Such Intention On Part Of Soviet Regime

SOFIA, April 22.—A statement from the Bulgarian government issued today confirmed reports that the cathedral bomb explosion was to be the opening move in a detailed plan for the overthrow of the government. The date for the proclamation of a provisional Soviet regime had been set in advance and is known to the authorities, according to the statement.

The government knows the names of the members of the proposed Soviet regime and has arrested most of them, it was said. The Government alleged that Soviets have been co-operating with Communist organizations in Serbia and Czecho-Slovakia, where Kolaroff, Dimitroff, Todoroff and Oboff were said to be the leaders.

The government continued its measures to suppress all disturbances. No reign of terror exists, nor summary executions held, but the government is handling the situation with firmness.

Jugo-Slav Denial

BELGRADE, April 22.—The Jugo-Slav government today issued a statement emphatically denying any intention of invading Bulgaria. Jugo-Slavia will continue its peaceful policy, according to the statement.

The statement was in answer to rumors current in Vienna that the Bulgarian revolts were incited to provoke civil war and thus provide Jugo-Slavia with an excuse to occupy the country.

The rumors said that a Jugo-Slav army was ready to march into Bulgaria if the revolts developed into a definite revolutionary movement.

It was reported from Bucharest that King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania had made all arrangements to receive King Boris and the Bulgarian royal family if they should flee from Sofia.

SOLON FLATLY DENIES OIL CHARGES

Senator Wheeler On Stand In Own Defense, Calmly Answers Questions

By KENNETH CLARK
For International News Service

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 22.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, took the witness stand in his own defense at his trial in federal court here today.

Wheeler flatly denied the charges in the indictment that after election to the Senate he illegally received a fee from Gordon Campbell, Montana prospector, to handle government oil permits before the interior department.

"I had nothing whatever to do with Campbell's oil permits and never practiced before the Interior," said Wheeler.

Deep silence settled over the packed courtroom as Wheeler testified in a quiet, leisurely voice. The jury strained forward to catch every word. Senator Walsh, Wheeler's colleague and chief counsel, conducted the examination.

Wheeler repudiated the testimony of George B. Hayes, the government's surprise witness.

"I never met Hayes in New York and did not meet him until he came as a witness to the Senate committee that investigated the department of justice of which I was a member," said Wheeler. "Hayes was attorney for one Goroni in a bootlegging case."

Hayes Denied

Hayes had testified that on March 16, 1923, Wheeler in a New York hotel proposed an agreement to split fees if Hayes would replace Wheeler in representing Gordon Campbell before the interior.

"I did not meet Hayes until March, 1924, a year after Hayes said he met me," Wheeler added. "I was introduced to him for the first time by A. B. Melsener, an employe of the committee."

"Did you ever discuss Campbell's government oil permits at the Interior or with anybody else?" interrupted Walsh.

"No, I never did."

SNOW BLANKETS FOOTHILLS LAND

Foot of White Moisture is Covering Region East Of San Diego

SAN DIEGO, April 22.—Over a foot of snow blanketed a wide area in the foothills a few miles east of here today, the heaviest snowstorm in the history of the weather bureau for this month. The absence of wind prevented serious drifting so that the several highways to Imperial valley were not blocked in the mountain passes.

Three inches of rain has fallen during the storm period at some points in the county, while San Diego city registered but .56. The sky still is overcast, with continued showers predicted.

There was rejoicing among the farmers of extreme Southern California over the rain and snow storm. The moisture was sorely needed for pasturage, grain and orchards.

The system of reservoirs was today impounding water at the rate of five million gallons an hour.

Lindley, architect.

HERRIOT NOW LEADER OF DEPUTIES

Former French Premier Gets Leadership Opposed By Fist Fights

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service.

PARIS, April 22.—Eduoard Herriot, former premier, was today elected president of the Chamber of Deputies. His election followed dissension on the part of those opposed to the ministry of Premier Painleve.

Opposition to the ministry of Premier Painleve asserted itself in the chamber and for a time halted the selection of Herriot as president of the chamber.

A fist fight occurred between Deputy Belanant of the opposition and several Socialist deputies.

Belanant insisted on remaining on the president's tribune during the counting of ballots for the presidency of the chamber. He refused to leave when ordered and Socialist deputies pummeled him. The chamber adjourned fifteen minutes to restore order.

The chamber had one hour to vote and it was expected that Herriot would be chosen without discord, but the opposition deputies refused to participate in the voting. This caused a failure of a quorum and a second ballot was made necessary. The election of Herriot then resulted.

BIG PROGRAM STAGED BY L. A. LIONS

Visitors Invade Local Den And Offer Excellent Entertainment

Appearing with a wealth of talent unequaled in the records of service organization programs in the history of this city, twelve members of the Los Angeles Lions' club, under the leadership of Edwin M. Gore, president, assumed charge of the luncheon meeting held today noon by the Glendale den of Lions at the Harriett Mae Tea room.

The entertainment features of the program opened with crooning melodies by Thomas Bridges, with Richard Alter at the piano. Clark Dennington gave two dramatic readings, "In Victus" (W. E. Henley), and "Lascar" (Frank Desprez), with Frederick North at the piano. Len Parker delighted the club members with two excellent tenor solos, "For You Alone" (Geehl) and "Until" (Sanderson). Mr. North was the accompanist.

Although the complete glee club of the Los Angeles Lions' club was not present, President Gore called upon William Johnson, Dr. Frank L. Cunningham, Len Parker, Dr. C. L. Chandler, Austin Campbell and Clark Dennington, who sang "Winter Song" (Bullard) and "Kentucky Babe," a crooning southern melody number. Mr. North was accompanist.

Japanese Vessel With Entire Crew Is Lost

WASHINGTON, April 22.—All members of the crew of the Japanese steamer Raifuku Maru perished when their vessel sank in mountainous seas off the Nova Scotia coast, according to a radiogram received today by the coast guard service. The Japanese crew, numbering twenty-five to thirty-five men, sank with their ship. Rescue vessels were unable to find trace of survivors.

The coast guard cutter Tampa, en route to ice patrol duty, steamed over the tragic spot late yesterday, the message added, and could find no sign of survivors. The cutter reported that other vessels which responded to the Raifuku Maru's call, also aided in the unsuccessful search.

GRADE SCHOOL BOND ISSUE PROPOSED

Local Board of Education In Call for Meeting to Discuss Project

Reopening the question of a bond issue of $1,000,000 or more for the building of elementary schools in Glendale, the Board of Education last night called a meeting of representatives of civic and service organizations, to be held next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, in the auditorium of the Glendale avenue school.

A proposed bond issue of $1,200,000 for elementary school purposes was defeated at a recent election. Representatives of the various local organizations will be asked for their opinion on Tuesday evening as to the wisdom of calling another bond election because of the inadequate housing provisions in elementary schools of the city. A short session of the board will precede Tuesday night's meeting.

President Re-elected

Mrs. Eva C. Barton, was re-elected president of the board at last night's session, and Harry W. Chase was re-elected secretary. Mrs. Barton, David J. Hibben and Eugene H. Learned were appointed a teachers' committee, while Hibben and Learned were appointed for a building committee.

The board last night rescinded its former action and voted to establish summer school in Glendale, with free tuition, to a limited number of students. Plans were made to obtain a two-year extension on the lease of its present offices.

MANGLED BODY OF GIRL DISCOVERED

Arms, Legs, Head Hacked Off; Remains Found On Golf Links Basin

CHICAGO, April 22.—A pair of champagne-colored hose and three buttons today offered the only workable clues for police probing the identity of the woman or girl whose torso, legs, head and arms hacked off with an axe, were found yesterday by a 12-year-old boy searching for golf balls in a catch basin on the edge of Budlong links.

The body, police believe, had been in the water about nine months and a check-back in the missing persons' bureau led to a theory that the victim might be Anna Chamales, 15, missing since last June, despite a nation-wide search and large rewards offered by her family for word of her whereabouts.

Rancher Confesses To Killing To Win Girl

SACRAMENTO, April 22.—Confession that he slew with a club, Karl C. Bruce, 28, member of a prominent Butte county family, during a quarrel near Chico late yesterday over a woman, was made in the presence of police here today by Lawrence J. Bennett, son of William Bennett, rancher of Nord.

Sale of Ships Halted Again By Court Rule

WASHINGTON, April 22.—A temporary injunction halting the sale of five "president" type shipping board liners to the Dollar interests was extended for one more day by Justice Hitz of the district supreme court this afternoon.

The extension was won by attorneys for the Pacific Mail Co., who demanded more time in which to prepare an appeal to the district court of appeals against the judge's order dismissing their original injunction suit. The temporary writ would have expired this afternoon. Attorneys both for the shipping board and the Dollar line vigorously opposed the delay, declaring the court already had dismissed the Pacific Mail company's complaint. They argued there was no need for further delay in confirmation of the sale.

BATTLE LINES DRAWN NEAR HONOLULU

'Black' Fleet Prepares To Meet 'Blue' On Way From Golden Gate

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE
For International News Service.

HONOLULU, April 22.—While eleventh-hour defense plans were being worked out here today by the "black" forces of the United States fleet, expecting the arrival of the "blue" fleet, bent on capturing Oahu island, on which Honolulu is located, actual launching of the great maneuvers was expected.

The attacking "blue" forces were believed to have completed more than two-thirds of their trip to Honolulu from San Francisco and were expected to "attack" the island soon.

"Black" Fleet Set

Army contingents of the "black" fleet were busy today transporting heavy guns to vantage points in the city and island.

Scouting planes will probably start their long vigil tomorrow.

In the meantime, Honolulu, gay with flags and decorations in honor of the fleet, awaited the arrival of the sea forces.

A gigantic welcome has been prepared for the sailors and interest centers in entertaining the visitors and not in the forthcoming war game, despite the fact many columns have been printed in the newspapers concerning the fleet maneuvers.

Suspect In Death Of Rancher 'Seriously Ill'

HANFORD, April 22.—Mrs. Jennie Laura Brown, one of four persons held in the mysterious death of Lee Camp, wealthy farmer found dead on the Browns' "ranch of regrets" and who left Mrs. Brown the bulk of his estate, valued at more than $200,000, was reported critically ill today. Owing to the woman's condition, it was regarded as unlikely that she or any of the quartet arrested in connection with Camp's death will be arraigned until next week.

Openly charging intimacy between Mrs. Brown and the young rancher, there was on file today the suit of Camp's sister, Mrs. Pearl King, to break Camp's will. The sister in the suit charged a "strange and unnatural" affection existed between Camp and his foster mother, Mrs. Brown, and that she "went into the fields" with him while he was working and was constantly hugging and kissing him.

OFFICERS FOR SIXTH CLASS CITY ARE ELECTED

Long Campaign In Foothill Community Ends With Voters' Decision

Tujunga will become a city of the sixth class, following the action of the voters of that community at an election held yesterday, when the proposition to incorporate carried by a majority of 103 votes.

An unusually heavy vote was recorded at the election, 830 ballots out of 1050 persons registered being cast. The result was:

For incorporation .....457
Against incorporation .....354

The election brought to an end a campaign that has been waged for the past three years; and which was first officially acted upon in December, 1922, when the issue lost by 56 votes at an election when 626 votes were cast. An attempt was made to hold another election last year, but action of the county Board of Supervisors in reducing the territory intended to be incorporated resulted in an area wherein not enough voters lived to legally hold an election.

Five trustees were elected yesterday, a city clerk and a city treasurer. There were nine candidates for trustees, and the results were:

John W. Russell.....388
Henry W. Zachau .....337
Curtis Myers .....311
E. R. Miller .....265
John O'B. Bodkin .....240
E. C. Scuibe .....238
J. W. Harris .....235
David S. Bozart .....193
E. W. Pasko .....177

The first five named candidates were chosen, and after the county Board of Supervisors has canvassed the vote, certified it to the secretary of state and a charter issued, the trustees will meet and select a chairman. It was reported today that Mr. Russell, who polled the highest vote, would be chosen chairman of the board.

Mrs. Bertha A. Morgan was chosen city clerk, and Gus Adams was named city treasurer. They had no opposition.

Hold Auto Parade

The outcome of the incorporation proposition was in doubt last night until all the votes had been counted, and when the result was announced, the advocates of incorporation formed an automobile parade which wound its way through the city.

An extensive celebration is being planned for the day on which the charter will be officially received and presented, thus giving Tujunga the right to be listed as a city. The territory included in the incorporation limits, as set forth on the ballot, takes in the larger part of the Tujunga school district.

Previous to election, a number of meetings were held by those in favor of incorporation, and persons opposed to the move. A feature of the campaign was a joint debate held at the schoolhouse.

Stars In Pulsating Film

DORIS KENYON, feminine lead of "Born Rich," extraordinary picture now showing at Cosmo Theatre, plays big part in making that film one of best of season's offerings; credit also due director for screen classic.

"Born Rich," a First National picture starring Doris Kenyon, now playing at the Cosmo Theatre, is quite out of the ordinary, and is one of the finest of this season's motion picture offerings. While the setting is that of wealth, the picture is as simple and unaffected as a letter from home, and it possesses an appeal that is as broad as the horizon.

Hughes Cornell, the author of the novel on which this production is based, has given a pulsating story of the rich, colorful and enticing. Harry Gerson, manager of the Cosmo at Brand boulevard and Windsor road, was fortunate in obtaining this feature for the premiere opening of the theatre.

In the competent hands of Director Will Nigh, who made the production, the tale has been transferred into a screen classic. And considerable credit is due to the highly capable cast assembled by Nigh, the roll including Claire Windsor, Bert Lytell, Doris Kenyon, Cullen Landis, J. Barney Sherry, Maude Gordon, Frank Morgan and Jackie Ott.

"Born Rich" is a vigorously presented story, told smoothly and eloquently. From beginning to end it is graphically portrayed, one of the pictures that one can recommend as worth seeing.

PROPAGANDISTS BANNED

SANTA ANA, April 22.—No longer will the highly organized machinery and influential platforms of the Congress of Mothers and P.-T. A. be used for the dissemination of propaganda or money raising schemes, it was announced at a meeting of the P.-T. A. of the Frances E. Willard junior high school. Resolutions to that effect have been adopted by the Fourth district P.-T. A. It was also urged that before an outside speaker be allowed to appear before a P.-T. A. audience an effort be made to ascertain the nature of the proposed address.

55 YEARS WED

TUSTIN, April 22.—A surprise program over radio was the unique wedding anniversary celebration staged for Mr. and Mrs. Abraham H. Some of the past history of the couple was given. They were married in Burlington, Iowa in 1870.

SLOT MACHINES BARRED

SANTA BARBARA, April 22.—Culminating a lengthy period of hectic discussion members of the city council adopted an ordinance banning merchandise vending machines from the city. # You can afford Brick if you can afford to build at all BRICK is today the poor man's building material. For the average California bungalow the slight difference between the cost of brick and substitute materials is offset the very first year by the saving in paint, waste, insurance and repairs. Years after the flimsy house has fallen in ruin, the brick cottage continues beautiful, comfortable, cool, absolutely fireproof and substantial---a permanent asset instead of a constant drain.

If you have the slightest difficulty securing satisfactory information on the cost of brick construction, come to us. Our experience of nearly 40 years with the homebuilders of Southern California should be of great value to you in your efforts to combine economy with safety in planning your new home.

GLENDALE HAS DIRIGIBLE PROMISES

Chamber Told City Logical Terminus For Future Balloon Route

With establishment of his dirigible manufacturing plant in Glendale, Arthur Slate, aeronautical inventor who recently came here from New York, today pictured this city as the western terminus of a transcontinental dirigible route, with steel airships of his latest type, carrying 400 passengers each, plying the air at an average speed of 70 miles an hour between Southern California and the Atlantic seaboard.

Mr. Slate said that once he completes construction of several dirigibles, he is assured of air mail contracts between Southern California and eastern points. The even and dependable schedule that he will be able to offer with dirigibles as compared to that of airplanes, will assure the contracts, he said.

Mr. Slate appeared before the directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce yesterday and explained to them the principles of his latest type of propellerless dirigibles which he contends are safer and more dependable in the air than the present type of lighter- than-air ship and capable of making greater speed.

Glendale Chosen

He told the directors that he wanted to build the first of these ships in Glendale and will later establish his factory here permanently. He made it plain to the directors that he seeks no financing whatever, either for his site or construction of the factory or airships.

Mr. Slate said he first will build a small forty passenger ship for test purposes and will later go into the manufacture of large 400 passenger crafts. With a low operating expense and a passenger and freight capacity greater than that of a railroad train, Mr. Slate said his dirigibles will render trans-continental air travel not only three times as rapid as at present, but will keep the cost down to present railroad rates or lower.

Dr. T. C. Young, William L. Truitt and owners of the Glendale airport are arranging with Mr. Slate for a site near the airport for the erection of his factory.

New Crossing Signals Planned In Glendale

Increased automatic signal protection at the Glendale interlocking plant at the junction of the Southern Pacific and the Pacific Electric tracks on South Brand boulevard will be installed as quickly as materials can be obtained, and noises caused by torpedoes and air whistles, now used extensively, will be eliminated.

City Manager V. B. Stone was notified today of plans by the Pacific Electric Co. to install additional signal equipment that will make unnecessary the use of fuses and torpedoes along the track. Decision to install the euipment came after a number of conferences between Stone and officials of the Pacific Electric.

Complaints were lodged recently with the City Council by residents in the vicinity of the Pacific Electric tracks, who declared that the noise caused considerable disturbance at night. One rooming-house proprietor declared she lost considerable money through her inability to fetain roomers because of the noises. The exact time of installation of the new automatic signals is in doubt, Stone was told, because of the difficulty in obtaining equipment.

Dog Owner Fined $10 For Lack Of License

Beginning an active campaign against owners of dogs in Glendale who fail to obtain licenses from City Clerk A. J. Van Wie, Frank D. Crow, 347-A West Palmer avenue, was fined $10 by Police Judge F. H. Lowe today and warrants were issued for the arrest of three others.

J. J. Coker, 339 West Colorado street; J. Hannaway, 602 West Broadway, and T. Funatsu, 1419 South San Fernando road, were ordered arrested for violation of the city ordinance requiring dog licenses. A number of others are also to be haled before Judge Lowe, it was said today, unless licenses are paid immediately. There are nearly 1000 unlicensed dogs in Glendale at the present time, it was estimated.

The tribes of Judea were in the minority, she said, but from them came the Messiah.

Sylvester L. Weaver Gives Address at Meeting of C. C. Membership Drive Captains and Assistants

In a stirring address before half a hundred team captains and campaign workers, Sylvester L. Weaver, past president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and at present a director of that body, urged the necessity and obligation of Chamber of Commerce membership last night.

"Had Glendale been left to itself to drift without intelligent guidance, a guidance that can come only through a Chamber of Commerce, this city would never have grown to its present proportions. Without the continuation of such guidance, it cannot continue to grow and prosper," Mr. Weaver said.

"The Chamber of Commerce represents all organizations and all interests in the city. Every citizen out of jail should be a member. Who is there who has such little regard for his home, his family, his business and the prosperity and happiness of all those around him, that he will re-

OPTIMISM GOOD MEDICINE

Theatre fans need not fear because the great actors of today are leaving the stage, says Daniel Frohman, for there never was a man so great that someone else just as great did not come along to take his place. Each generation has said, with the passage of a favorite, that there never will be another so great. Yet there always has been talent developing to take the place of the old man that has gone.

"This optimism is good medicine," says the Hemet News, "not only for folks who like the theatres, but for people interested in anything else. It is the best remedy for swelled head in the world. Pretty nearly everybody, at some time or other, has arrived at this enlarged cranium crisis. It is at this moment precisely that careers are either made or broken. If the head is tapped and deflated in time the chances are good that the man or woman will amount to something. If the swelling is allowed to continue, a failure is inevitable."

A certain amount of self-assurance is the first requisite of accomplishment, but it is always distressing to meet a person, especially a young person, who believes that all the secrets of the universe are in his keeping, who mistakes knowledge for wisdom and who has let the legitimate enthusiasm and optimism of youth run away with him. It has often been said that the first step in learning is to realize how little we know. As long as we think we know everything there is no incentive to try to learn.

No one is indispensable. This is difficult philosophy for every person at some period of life. But there comes a time when fate demonstrates. Many people would find life easier if they realized how easily their places could be filled. They would be relieved of a burden of responsibility that would make them happier and more efficient.

TORNADO OR GRADE CROSSING?

One of the lessons of the recent tornado that took so many lives in the middle west a few weeks ago was that, although we have made great strides in science and invention, we are still at the mercy of the elements. We can do nothing to stop or counteract a tornado or earthquake or any manifestation of nature. And it has been questioned whether we would trouble to do so if we could.

A total of 2149 lives were lost in grade crossing accidents in 1924, almost three times as many as were killed by the tornado. Grade crossing accidents are entirely unnecessary and avoidable, and yet we do very little—except talk—to prevent them. If these 2149 lives had all been snuffed out at the same time at the same crossing, we would arise in our might and do something about it. But since these deaths were spread over twelve months and occurred in every part of the country we do not consider them worth bothering about. Human nature is eccentric, contrary and criminally careless. But each of us has but one life and when unnecessarily sacrificed it is just as much of a loss whether we die alone or in some great calamity that takes hundreds of lives.

LAW FAVORS DOGS

The California Legislature celebrated "Be Kind to Animals Week" by passing a bill prohibiting carrying dogs on the running board of automobiles, unless crated securely. The law is intended as a humane measure.

There are some who profess to believe that dogs enjoy riding on the running boards of cars, but if you have ever watched a dog in this precarious position and saw his attempts to keep his balance, and if you imagined yourself in his position, you had to admit that it could not be a very pleasant experience—in fact little short of cruelty. Many dogs enjoy riding in automobiles, but no doubt, like people, they prefer to ride with some degree of comfort and safety.

It may be that there are dare-devil dogs who like the element of danger involved in riding on the running board of a car, but it is safe to say that they are as few as are dare-devil humans, and that the canine tribe as a whole would vote in favor of the new law. It is a humane measure, one that can work no hardship on the master, and one that will have the support of all who have an affection for dogs and who hate to see dumb beasts subjected to cruelty.

TOO MANY AUTOMOBILES

Someone complains that there are too many kinds of automobiles manufactured; that it is hard to decide among so many what kind of a car to buy, and that this duplication of effort and expense is costly to the public. Each company must maintain a separate plant, separate scientific staffs, separate groups of officials and separate selling organizations.

It is a question whether this is true or not. It probably will be if there are many new makes of cars placed on the market. But these separate plants and staffs and selling organizations all give work to large numbers of people and it is not certain that they constitute an additional expense to the buyer. If half of the makes of automobiles now on the market were withdrawn and their manufacture stopped, or if half the factories absorbed the other half, we have no guarantee that the prices of those remaining on the market would be reduced.

Too great a duplication of effort and expense does not create healthy business conditions, but, since so many cars of all kinds are being sold, it would seem that there is no need for worry along that line yet.

WOMEN AS LAWMAKERS

There are thirty-three women in the German Reichtsag and eight in the British Parliament. Scandinavian women are represented among the lawmakers also. Since suffrage was granted American women there have been three of the sex in Congress and two will be seated at the next term. A few years ago we were the most advanced nation in the world in the rights and privileges of women, but now we are the most conservative. Woman suffrage in Germany is newer than in the United States, but feminism in that country is traveling faster than in ours. This is strange, since it is proverbial that the Germans confined their women to the three K's—Kuchen, Kinder and Kirche. Many regard this transformation in the status of women in Germany as one of the hopeful sgins of a better age in that country.

OUR DREAM!

Women Who Want To Be Men

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Gertrude Atherton says she never wanted to be a man.

Very often you hear women say they would like to be men because men have the best of it in this world.

It depends on what you think is the best. Men have to stand out in front to do the fighting and women have to stand behind and take care of the results. The woman is the conserver and keeper of the home while the man is the maker of it.

A woman is naturally a satellite. She is the born wife and mother and home maker. There are some women, however, who do not belong to this type. They want to be in the front themselves.

They cannot express themselves through a man, either because of their nature or because of circumstances, and they like to make their mark upon the world themselves.

Man is naturally the creator and the adventurer. It is he who goes forward and takes risks and makes the progress. The woman is the housekeeper and conserves the results which the man achieves.

Women have never been great in an original capacity. There have been few women poets, statesmen and prophets, although there are some exceptions to this rule.

There is no justice or common sense in denying to all women the same privileges which men enjoy.

Women have the power to vote now, and to hold office and to enter into business.

"Even those too high minded to give a thought to revenge," says Mrs. Atherton, "must experience a profound satisfaction in being no longer ranked as political inferiors."

There is a good deal of danger in removing the restraining barriers that have always been around women, but as Mrs. Atherton reminds us the first fruit of education is always poisonous.

Human nature will remain the same, and after her first touch of liberty woman will settle down to be her old self.

One trouble with women in business is that they are constantly confronted with the personal element. Men regard them first as women and then as business persons.

Most men like women of the clinging type. They like to be depended upon. They like to be the protector of their mates. Wherever the woman is superior to the man in ability or possessions, there is a complication added to their problem.

The happiest woman perhaps is the woman who is dependent upon a man and who has the kind of man she is proud to be dependent upon. If she can find the right kind of man she is glad to be his woman.

Horoscope

According to astrology this is rather a doubtful day. While Mercury and Venus are in benefic aspect, the Sun, Mars, Uranus and Saturn are all adverse.

Under this planetary government the mind is likely to be disturbed and even despondent without adequate cause.

It is well today to guard the thoughts which may be vagrant and even destructive in their influence, pulling down where they should build up activities.

Women who desire to accomplish anything under this sway should rise early in the morning and beware of crossing the plans of persons possessing authority.

Antagonism to reform movements may be expected by women who may find plans of far-reaching importance blocked.

Even though the stars frown upon many human idiosyncrasies they encourage love-letters today, even though danger may lurk in a fountain pen or a bottle of purple ink.

This should be a favorable rule under which to sign contracts with actors or actresses.

The stage is to hold interest all through the coming summer which should be prosperous for theatres in many cities.

Critics flourish under this direction of the stars which imparts, the seers believe, power to sway public opinion.

Painters are to have a period of prosperity, for they are to enjoy government patronage on big commissions, it is prophesied.

Death will summon one of the most celebrated Americans before the beginning of summer, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is probably will have an extraordinarily active year. They will travel far, it is augured, and will spend much money.

Children born on this day will be original, energetic, and resourceful. These subjects of Taurus are always interested in pushing projects that are generally successful.

Today's Poem

MY HEART LEAPS UP
My heart leaps up when I behold
A rainbow in the sky;
So was it when my life began,
So is it now I am a man,
So be it when I shall grow old,
Or let me die!
The child is father of the man;
And I could wish my days to be Bound each to each by natural piety.

—W. Wordsworth.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

CLARK KINNAIRD

The children's bureau of the department of labor is circulating ten commandments to be observed in bringing up a child:

Don't be oversolicitious. "Children may become self-centered and develop imaginary complaints because illness is looked for."

Don't "baby" your children too much. "The child who is closely tied to his mother's apron strings is deprived of the chance of learning how to live with his neighbors."

Don't try to give your children everything they happen to demand.

Don't bribe. "So often is heard, 'Now, Johnny, be a good boy and mother, will give you a penny.' Soon Johnny will be demanding two or three pennies."

Don't cheat. "Frequently parents lie to keep a child quiet or gain a desired end. Suddenly they waken to the fact their child has no regard for the truth and wonder why."

Don't make meaningless threats.

Don't talk about or laugh at children in their presence, as self-consciousness is harmful and quickly developed.

Don't be cold and repelling. "A parent too busy to bother with a little child's nonsense will never be bothered by his real problems."

Don't be discourteous. "Children have their own plans, which are frequently utterly disregarded by adults. If you must interfere show consideration."

Don't disagree over discipline before the child. Settle differences in private.

* * *

Dr. D. A. Thom, director of the Boston Habit Clinics for Children, who is responsible for the commandments, is to be commended; but it seems to me that he has made an important omission.

There should be an eleventh commandment. Teach your children to respect their bodies. Help them understand from infancy how important it is to care for it properly. Inculcate in them the wonder of its performances.

* * *

Instruct them that the body is a machine of the nature of an army—of this army each cell is a soldier, an organ brigade, the central nervous system headquarters and field telegraph, the alimentary and circulatory system, the supply corps. Losses are made good by recruits born in camp, and the life of the individual is a campaign, conducted successfully for a number of years, but with certain defeat in the long run.

Timely Views

"If France's security is guaranteed by a group of nations, certainly Germany's security should also be guaranteed by them. That is only fair. The English proposal to include Germany among the guarantors and guaranteed is therefore superior to the French proposal. But are not both plans inferior to that of a general guarantee of security by the 55 nations composing the League of Nations?"

This is the query raised by Theodore Marburg, publicist and peace advocate. He continues:

"Groupings lead to counter-groupings. The Triple Alliance of Germany, Austria and Italy produced the Triple Entente of France, Russia and Britain. Again, granted that a sense of fairness supports the British demand for an inclusion of Germany in the pact, how much would her presence in the group really add to France's security? Bismarck made his secret compact with Austria against possible Russian aggression and then as secretly made his compact with Russia against possible Austrian aggression. If group should array itself against group, Germany might easily fly off at a tangent and array itself with France's enemies. To be of value, compacts in a narrow group must be made between natural allies.

"At present France and Britain are such natural allies. Peace between them is secure. Each knows that if, in a moment of weakness, she should ally herself with Germany against the other and so overwhelm her, she herself would be the next victim of German ambition. They remember how Prussia, in alliance with Austria, took Schleswig-Holstein from Denmark to place it under the joint dominion of herself and Austria; how, within a few months, she fell upon her former ally, Austria, overwhelmed her in a seven-week war and herself took over Schleswig-Holstein with its valuable littoral.

France may be jealous of Britain's secure position on her snug island, of her vast empire, of her influence in European and world affairs. But France does not want to conquer Britain and she knows that Britain harbors no designs against her. On the other hand, which of them doubts that Germany, if she had the power, would joyfully smash both of them tomorrow?

"They both understand that while Germany is to be helped to her feet in the economic realm she must be kept disarmed. They feel that she should have an equal chance to develop her national life, an equal chance to air her grievances and to have justice meted out to her, and they have, therefore, invited her to enter the League of Nations as an equal. But a narrow alliance to keep the peace, whether Germany be included in it or not, is quite another matter. In small groups of nations selfish interests have more chance to prevail; witness the history of the Holy Alliance and of the Concert of Europe. Austria's selfish attitude wholly blocked the attempts of the latter group to prevent the first and second Balkan wars.

"No, where real security resides is in a general compact such as the Geneva plans of 1923 and 1924. From such come justice, out of which alone peace flows. Just as the federal government of the United States deals justly by the individual states composing the union, so justice is bound to result from the united action of an organized world. Unless this is true, unless injustice cannot come about by universal consent, we are on the wrong track in this whole movement for better world organization."

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, April 22.—Building of a home of its own is a proposition now before the Burbank Chamber of Commerce, and to this end President Durfur has been authorized to appoint a committee to investigate the desirability of such a move. Property front' g on Olive avenue has been offered to the chamber with a building to be paid for over a period of years.

Fire damaged the Beggs Brothers cigar factory, 151 Orange Grove avenue to the extent of about $1000, but was extinguished before adjoining property was endangered. The loss to raw materials is covered by insurance. Spontaneous combustion is believed to have caused the blaze.

The Burbank Chamber of Commerce has appointed W. E. French to investigate extension of the city's fire alarm system. Fire alarm boxes accessible to any person are believed essential to the city's safety.

Donald Newcomer won second place in the oratorical contest at the Belmont high school, Eugene S. McElmeel of Loyola college getting first position. Mark Keppel, county superintendent of schools, presided at the session.

With a program presented by students of Edith Ford Pla, vocalist, a group of friends was entertained by musical numbers at the Women's clubhouse. The lounge room had been reserved for the gathering, but the crowd overflowed into the main auditorium.

Nine Stars

House Peters and Ruby De Remer head list of personalities to be seen at GLENDALE THEATRE in "Don't Marry for Money" opening today.

Nine names, each of a personality that is a synonym for success, constitute the cast of "Don't Marry for Money," the most recent of the series of "adult emotion" pictures sponsored by L. Lawrence Weber and Bobby North which will open this afternoon and tonight at the Glendale Theatre.

House Peters, Ruby De Remer, Cyril Chadwick, Christine Mayo, George Nichols, Hank Mann and Charles Wellesley, all on one roster, give definite assurance to those who know who's who on the screen, that, indeed, here is a cast whose assemblage can do naught but deliver a series of artistic performances, and under the gifted direction of Clarence L. Brown, these nine mosaics of characterization form a pattern of a picture that is among the best.

"Don't Marry for Money" sounds a warning, as its title would indicate, to the credulous and the unworldly who are innocent and unsophisticated enough to believe that the possession of wealth is a panacea for the cure of all the ills that flesh is heir to.

A poor girl marries a man for his money. She tried to make herself believe that she pays in full by a perfunctory performance of her matrimonial obligations, but her guilty conscience makes her easy prey to a coterie of clever crooks who take advantage of the fears with which her conscience plagues her.

Besides the feature film, an exceptional preview is also scheduled to be shown tonight at the Glendale Theatre at 8:30 o'clock. Allen White's Collegians also appear tonight and tomorrow, ending a five-day engagement at the Glendale.

'NARROW STREET' GATEWAY MOVIE

'Best Seller' Scenarioized Is Feature Picture At Popular Theatre

William Beaudine, who directed "The Narrow Street," the screen adaptation of the "best seller" of the same name, scheduled to show today only at the Gateway theatre, is a firm believer in mixing a little fun with work.

While making a rain scene in the above Warner Brothers' production, everything was set for the camera, when the call was given to start the rain. Something happened. There was no rain. Beaudine, thinking he would pull a wise remark, yelled for Mr. Hatfield, the rainmaker, and, to his surprise, a person stepped forward from a group of extras and said, "Yes, sir, I am Mr. Hatfield." That was the last crack the clever director ventured.

Dorothy In It

Dorothy Devore, the clever comedienne, who starred in Christie Comedies before leaving that field, has the featured role in "The Narrow Street." Opposite her plays Matt Moore. Others in the cast are Gertrude Short, Tempe Pigott, Kate Toncracy, Madame Sultewan and David Butler.

"The Narrow Street" concerns a girl, beautiful, cultured, refined, who walks into a bachelor's apartment out of a storm. The police are on her trail. Then she disappears as suddenly as she comes, but not before she has started a new strange chapter in the man' heretofore uneventful life.

There will be the usual Wednesday feature of vaudeville.

Dog License Tax Is Due, Collector Warns

The license tax on dogs in Glendale became due and payable on February 1st, the fiscal year being from February 1st, 1925 to February 1st, 1926. There have been since February, several canvassers, going from house to house to collect the license money and issue receipts and tags, and these collectors have only finished about half of the city. Canvassers report many dog owners in Glendale who have not yet paid their tax. Licenses are $2 for either male or female dog, for the balance of the fiscal year.

WINTER WHEAT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 22.—The condition of the Illinois winter wheat crop is reported 87 per cent of normal, compared with 73 per cent a year ago, and 81 per cent, the 10 year average. Abandonment will be light, with prospect of much heavier yield than in 1924.

PLAYERS' COMEDY PAINTS SOCIETY

Mrs. Dobinson's Latest At Playhouse Written By Clare Kummer

The audience is led to suspect, beneath the bland hilariousness of the lines of "Good Gracious Annabelle," now at the Glendale Playhouse, a certain irony on the part of the author, Clare Kummer. While Mr. Kummer gives the audience plenty of laughs, he also permits himself the luxury of a few chuckles.

There is at least a well-founded suspicion that he realizes how funny some very wealthy people are, because of their ideas of their own overweening importance.

"George Wimbledon," who has inherited his father's millions, is a likable chap, but he has his faults. He is perennially in a state of mild intoxication, in which he speaks funny lines, but he is not unaware of what is going on about him.

Whims of Rich

He makes infrequent visits to his beautiful Long Island estate, but when he does there is usually an upheaval. He shows the whims of the rich by discharging various servants who don't suit him. He abhors the name of "Ronald" and fires his chauffeur for possessing it as a moniker.

When Annabelle, the masterful, whose favorite expletive is "Good gracious!" floats into Wimbleton's life and hires out as a cook, she brings with her in her train of impecunious ones a young man who also rejoices in the name of Ronald. Then there is anxiety, for fear the bibulous young millionaire will find it out and send the wearer of the name packing.

Strong Plot

Although created for laughing purposes only, "Good Gracious Annabelle" has a strong plot. There is a struggle over the possession of two shares of stock which mean control of a large and potentially wealthy corporation, and this adds to the complication. Anne has the stock, receiving it from her husband, who is present in disguise; Wimbledon gets it; Annabelle's lawyer wants it; and thus it goes.

"Good Gracious Annabelle" will run all week, and there will be the usual Saturday matinee. It is evident, from the expressions of those who saw the play Monday and last night, that it will enjoy a good business during the week.

CLUB WOMEN TO SEE 'GOLONDRINA'

Glendale People To Review McGroarty's New Play Tomorrow Matinee

Members of the Glendale Tuesday Afternoon club will attend "La Golondrina" John Steven McGroarty's second California drama, at San Gabriel tomorrow afternoon, as a club organization. Special tickets are on sale at the clubhouse and friends and guests of the club are invited to join in the excursion.

"La Golondrina" is the second of the triology of California drama being created by the southland's poet-playwright and deals with the second phase of the Golden State, when the missions were in all their glory and functioned at the height of their power. To truly visualize what the mission period in California was during the regime of the Spanish governors and again turn back the pages of time to the splendor of the most gorgeous betrothal festival ever held at the hacienda of a California governor one should see "La Golondrina."

Mr. McGroarty has plucked the most exquisite love story from the scroll of California's historical romances and with powerful dramatic effect woven about it the thrilling clash of Russian explorers, the noted American navigator, Captain Wolf, and the Spanish rulers of the Presidio at San Francisco.

The plea of "La Golondrina" for the life of the handsome Russian count, their later plighted troth and the impetuous wooing of the Spanish lover all combine to make "La Golondrina" a play to intrigue the fancy of the lover of the drama. Then there are the splendor of color, the exquisite harmony of haunting old Spanish melodies and the entrancing Spanish dances. The blending of the rich Russian costumes and the gay Spanish shawls are a treat in themselves.

Tickets at a special rate may be secured at the Tuesday clubhouse until noon tomorrow.

MERCHANTS BODY TO INCORPORATE

Association Announces Move Shortly at Luncheon At Temple Today

The Glendale Merchants' association will be incorporated within the next few weeks, it was announced at a meeting of that body held today at the Masonic temple. Incorporation papers have been prepared by Attorney Charles Chandler and are now being revised by the board of directors.

Support by the Merchants' association of the new City Council was urged in short talks by Mayor H. G. MacBain and Councilman C. E. Kimlin.

"City officers of the type we have secured who give their time to Glendale merit the support of the organization and every individual," declared Walter P. Potter.

A campaign to get every member of the association to enroll as members of the Chamber of Commerce was launched today. Only seven members, it was announced, are non-members of the chamber, giving the association at the present time a 99.44 per cent membership in the other organization.

TURF SEASON TO SET SMART WEAR

New York Women Fashion Dress to Suit Opening Of Race Tracks

By AILEEN LAMONT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Some of the best dressed women in New York are already preparing their costumes for the opening of racing in the metropolitan district which starts with the Jamaica meeting. One frock which will be seen on the Jamaica clubhouse lawn consists of a sleeveless coat of peacock blue crepe de chine edged with yellow, worn over an underdress of yellow satin richly embroidered in blue in Chinese designs. A jade necklace and a small blue hat with a pagod-like front brim are adjuncts to this costume.

There have been scores of hats worn this spring of the roll brim type but apparently so far there is only one of the roll feather type. A new Paris importation is a small taffeta hat with an extremely narrow brim and a rather high pointed crown. It is trimmed with tight little rolls of ostrich feathers, set closely together and extending over the crown from one ear to the other.

Different Anyway

The French designers sometimes have some queer ideas when it comes to sport clothes. One new gold costume which no American golfer has yet had the temerity to wear consists of a very short, tight red flannel skirt surrounded by a long, sleeveless, low necked sweater of white embroidered in panels in black and orange.

Larger bills are going into smaller pocketbooks. The bags many smart women here now are carrying are almost diminutive, so small in fact that in addition to the necessary mirror, rouge, lipstick and powder puff, they hold only a small roll of bills. Therefore, larger bills are carried. Most of these bags are of hand tooled leather in rather intricate designs.

One of the latest types of shoe to arrive on these shores from France is called the "sabot" but it is only faintly reminiscent of the wooden shoe. It has a rather round toe and a strap covered by a jeweled buckle which crosses the foot high up on the instep.

REALTORS BOOST GUTHRIE FOR JOB

Forty-Six Boards of Fifty Back Glendalian for Commissionership

Forty-six out of fifty real estate boards throughout the state, so far heard from by the Glendale board, have endorsed the appointment of Charles B. Guthrie for real estate commissioner to succeed Edwin T. Keiser, resigned, William L. Twining, president of the Glendale board, told realtors at their weekly meeting today noon.

Mr. Guthrie, recently returned from Sacramento, where he conferred with Governor Richardson regarding the appointment of a new commissioner, thanked the Glendale board for its endorsement of his candidacy and urged that, regardless of personal affiliations, realtors everywhere stand behind the appointment of a real estate man to the commissionership.

Sales Expert Speaks

"The Glendale Realty board has been the means of crystallizing opinion throughout the state in favor of a realtor to deal with the realtors' problems," Mr. Guthrie said. "The proposal of the Los Angeles Realty board that a young lawyer, unfamiliar with the real estate business, be appointed, is nothing short of travesty."

E. C. D. Price, noted sales expert, who addressed the board after Mr. Guthrie, prefaced his talk on salesmanship by supporting the contention of Mr. Guthrie that a real estate man should be made commissioner in the state.

"If all state departments were headed by men who knew something about them, the state and all the taxpayers would be better off," he declared.

Newest Member

"Real estate brokers are losing all their opportunities of profit by driving people around showing them property when in reality 90 per cent of the supposed prospects aren't prospects at all," he said. He urged stricter attention to positive prospects instead of persons not actually in a position financially or otherwise to buy. He urged the natural law of salesmanship.

Frank H. Wynn, newest member of the board, was introduced today. President Twining announced that William L. Truitt, director, had been named to represent the Realty board at the national convention of real estate boards at Detroit early in June.

A. H. Voelker, in charge of the program today, announced that A. E. Hargrove of Anaheim will be the speaker at next week's meeting. The realtors met at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse.

The Realty board went on record endorsing the advertising scheme for National Reforestation week, scheduled for April 26 to May 2. O. M. Newby, member of the board, will appear before other organizations of Glendale in behalf of the movement to give widespread publicity to the reforestation campaign.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The navy dirigible Los Angeles arrived over Bermuda at 2:10 a. m., after a successful flight from Lakehurst, N. The ship made the flight in 11 hours 32 minutes, hovering over the island until daylight before an attempt was made to fasten it to the mooring mast aboard the Palooka.

The Los Angeles left Lakehurst at 2:38 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She carried a crew of twenty-eight and about thirty others, including balloonists and army and navy observers. Captain George W. Steele and Commander Jacob K. Klein were in charge.

WOMEN LEADERS STRONG FRIENDS

Voters' League Admire Two Members, One Successor To Other's Office

By EDNA MARSHALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

RICHMOND, Va., April 22.—It is a strange spectacle—the friendship of the two women now occupying the center of the stage in the National League of Women Voters' convention—the one successor to the other as president of the women's international suffrage alliance, each the antithesis of the other, and the two the most ideal friends.

There is more than admiration between Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, dean of the American suffrage movement, white-haired and statesmanlike, and Mrs. Margery Corbett Ashby of East Grimstead, England, young and pretty, with hands which constantly caress a miniature of a gold-haired baby. There is affection so strong that they have spent most of the minutes since their recent arrival here in each other's company, talking over past days.

Mrs. Catt, the passing leader of the old movement to get for women the vote, who will go to Washington on Thursday to help close up the American Suffrage association, is short, blue eyed and dignified. She is every inch the diplomat, whose only interests, seemingly, are the cause of women and the work for peace, and whose proudest boast is that she is one of the few true non-partisans in the world.

Mother, First

Mrs. Ashby is tall and slim and tailored, with only slightly graying hair and a smile that lights her eyes and makes them sparkle, except when she is thinking of the boy she left at home. Primarily she is a mother, who has found time while bringing up her 10-year-old son Michael, to become one of England's leading women and the head of a world movement to give women their rights.

Only a year ago Mrs. Catt turned over the reins of the international alliance to Mrs. Ashby with the trust that she carry it on. And Mrs. Ashby has done it, conducting campaigns in person and by proxy throughout the world.

The two women, perhaps the most distinguished visitors at the convention here, furnish a marked contrast. Both are diplomats of the first order, leaders with the powers of personality to direct whatever they try in so tactful a way that others love to follow. Both have brilliant minds, politically trained, as cognizant as any man of international affairs, but there similarities end.

Women's Suffrage

In the days when women's suffrage was still an ideal Mrs. Catt rallied round herself cohorts unnumbered and devoted. When suffrage had been won she helped to organize the League of Women Voters to carry on the work. And today with years of service behind her, she says, "The rest of my life I will give to securing permanent peace. That is all I want now."

Mrs. Ashby has life all before her. She has work, and family and love of the out of doors. To her, she admits, there are few greater joys than a long hike, a swim or a good mountain climb. Her family is her life, she says, and her chief wish now is for the day when she will have done with her coming lecture tour in the states and may sail for home again.

And yet she has done much in public life. She is a graduate of Newham college, Cambridge, and of Dublin university. She was selected to speak before President Wilson on the League of Nations commission during the peace conference in Paris in 1919 and before Samuel Gompers on the international labor commission.

Always an ardent feminist, she also has worked for children and for nine years was a member of the Wandsworth board of guardians besides her present presidency of the international suffrage alliance which federates the women of forty countries in a common effort for equal citizenship and an equal moral standard.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

After the Legislature has adjourned April 24—and presuming the Assembly passes Senator Arthur H. Breed's bill increasing the gasoline tax a cent for the purpose of financing the construction of new highways—it will be up to Governor Friend W. Richardson to finally determine that which is best for California.

If the gas tax increase and other revenue raising measures are all signed—and for some of them good economy would advise against that—the state will have an income of more than $100,000,000 annually, or about $210,000,000 during the biennium, we would roughly estimate.

In a ten-year period, or decade, over a billion dollars in taxes would be taken from the people for state administration, to say nothing about county, municipal and federal taxation. Now that is a lot of money and it shows a decided jump over the last few years despite the more or less depressing conditions along the coast the last eighteen months.

Governor Richardson likely will think twice before signing the gasoline tax; also he will likely have as an alternative Assemblyman Isaac Jones' bill calling for $5,000,000 appropriations to complete the main highways of the state.

Paying for pavements is a problem. There are many people who are unalterably opposed to bond issues for the California Highway Commission today is rebuilding, out of the 2-cent gas tax, roads which have not been paid for by retiring bonds. It is something to ponder over.

But to place a 15 per cent sales tax on gasoline, as the three cent levy would have meant, is going a little strong, except in an emergency. The governor in his wisdom may decide that such an emergency exists. From existing funds Imperial valley is to be provided with long promised highways, the Jones bill would take care of transcontinental links to Oregon and Nevada and a few other stretches are provided in other bills.

Southern counties can take care, and most of them have taken care of their road problems. Let some of the northern counties do likewise. They will find highways a profitable investment.

Other than reapportionment, gasoline taxes, and religious training, there have been few spectacular fights in the California Legislature save for the Boulder canyon dam controversy which was brought to the solons in two resolutions and one bill.

The first was the Finney resolution ratifying the six-state treaty, and excluding Arizona from the compact. The Imperial valley assemblyman had reservation of rights in his resolution which was violently opposed both in the house and senate.

Then came Senator Ralph Swing with a resolution calling for a conference with Arizona and Nevada over the rights to the use of Colorado river waters in the lower basin. This didn't find opposition and through this parley it is hoped to appease Arizona.

But the Southern California metropolitan water district bill, introduced by Senator A. Burlingame Johnson, found a new line-up in opposing this plan for the utilization of some of the Boulder canyon dam storage. Senator Johnson has opposed the Finney resolution, which was said to insure the construction of a high dam by the federal government. And yet, for the sake of the district the senator was representing, he carried on with his bill.

Reapportionment is the big fight of the current and closing week of the Legislature. A compromise program between the cow counties and the Los Angeles delegation is about to be effected, it would appear, as the senate put an overwhelming stamp of approval on the scheme. The assembly would be remiss in its duty not to accept this very feasible method of settling a moot problem for the next fifteen years at least.

Cow county legislators—those who come from those districts outside of the centers of population—will make a big mistake in not accepting the compromise because Los Angeles likely will initiate and carry a strictly constitutional reapportionment measure at the next election unless the three-eighths, five-eighths control of the senate is placed on the ballot.

Organization Value Is Told Team Workers

fuse $25 a year for membership in the Chamber of Commerce?

Praises Evening News

"The membership fee in this organization, without which the city of Glendale could not exist, amounts to 7 cents a day or about 50 cents a week. The combined worth of the time spent gratis in boosting the Chamber of Commerce by the directors and others active in committee work is inestimable."

Mr. Weaver praised the membership organization perfected under Dr. T. C. Young, chairman. In talking of institutions in the city that are playing important parts in Glendale's development, the speaker referred to The Glendale Evening News, complimenting the publisher of this paper on the New Year's special edition issued on January 1.

"The paper was one of the finest I ever saw from the standpoint of a community boost. Such efforts on the part of The Evening News will bear fruit that will be of benefit to the whole city of Glendale," he said.

Reports Are Given

Enthusiasm over prospects of the membership drive was high at the meeting last night. Encouraging reports were given by team captains who attended the meeting, held at the Harriett Mae tea room at 6:15 o'clock.

W. E. Hewitt, past president of the Chamber of Commerce, and active worker in the present membership campaign, spoke to the team workers, stressing the need for a Chamber of Commerce membership twice the size of the present roster. Constant plugging during the remaining three days of the drive will achieve the coveted goal, he said, in urging a redoubling of efforts to swell the chamber membership lists.

Secretary Howard I. Wood this morning issued a statement soliciting the aid of every citizen of Glendale in helping push the Chamber of Commerce membership campaign to success. He called upon every team worker to exert his uttermost effort in securing members today, tomorrow and Friday. Members of the chamber who are not on the teams are not excused from active participation in the drive, he said. Each member has been asked to line up a prospect and turn his name over to the campaign workers.

Colonel Charles B. Wood, past president of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce, will speak to the campaigners at their meeting tonight at the Harriett Mae tea room.

The action was filed in superior court last year, after the Sparr interests had made plans for the drilling of a new well in that section of the city. Such a well, the city and water company claims, would endanger the city's water supply and encroach upon the city's water rights.

"It would be more of a reflection if you arrested the wrong one," said Flint. "I'm going to try a little experiment this afternoon, which, I think, will clear up things, and I'd like to have you present, inspector, if you'll promise to keep mum and let me run the show."

"Listen to him," guffawed Breitman. "The way that little man winds me round his finger is a scandal. Where and when is your experiment to come off?"

"At Hanibal Hurst's house, at 5 o'clock. I've asked Mr. Graham to come, too."

"Count me in. I'll be there, mum as the dead," said Breitman.

When Graham entered the library of the Hurst house that afternoon, at the appointed hour, he found the inspector already comfortably ensconced in a retired corner. Mrs. and Miss Hurst were also present. It was plain, however, from her attitude, that Estelle was there only under protest. With a formal bow to her, Graham slipped into an empty chair by Evadne's side. Flint, who was bent over his notebook, looked up and nodded to him as he entered.

"Is Garvy downstairs?" he inquired of Denis, who had shown Graham into the room.

"Him that comes prying about the house without so much as by-your-leave? He is, sir."

"Denis feels the dignity of the house has been impaired and the family affronted," whispered Evadne.

"He won't bother you much longer," said Flint, consolingly. "And, Denis," he added, "when Miss Gwendolyn Smith comes, show her up. The man who brings her is to wait below till he is needed."

"I forbid it," cried Estelle Hurst, springing from her chair. "Understand, Denis, you are not to bring that woman here. I won't have it."

She made Graham think of a red, slumbering ember which had burst suddenly into flame.

"I guess you will have to stand it for a few minutes," said Flint, without looking up from his book.

"I certainly will not. If she comes into this room, I leave it," she flashed back.

"You will stay in this room till I say you can leave it. I'm the one who says will and won't here today, Miss Hurst. Sit down, please."

There was a new note in Flint's voice, a tone of cold, inflexible command. Graham seemed to be always making the acquaintance of a new Flint. Undersized, colorless, inconspicuous, he yet seemed to Graham to dominate the room. He sat now, notebook in hand, softly tapping the table with his pencil, his eyes fixed steadily on Estelle, who returned his gaze defiantly.

"Sit down, please, Miss Hurst," he said again.

For a moment longer their wills clashed, a look growing in Estelle's eyes which startled Graham with its intensity. But the outburst of fury he expected did not come. Much to his surprise she let herself fall back sullenly into her chair. Graham gave a sigh of relief. He hardly knew what he had expected. "By the Lord Harry, I wouldn't like to have her look at me like that," he thought.

The door opened at that moment and Denis was spared a decision between Flint's commands and Estelle's, by the unassisted appearance of a much-ruffled and irate Miss Smith.

"Pussy's fur is rubbed the wrong way," Flint murmured.

Graham happened to be the first person on whom her eye lighted, and she addressed herself consequently to him.

"I'd like to know," she cried truculently, "what you mean by having me dragged here as if I was a criminal?"

"Blame this minion of the law here, not me," Graham answered, taking craven refuge behind Flint's officialdom. "The law has no manners, my dear Miss Smith. It says come, and you come. If you don't you are sorry."

Miss Smith allowed herself to smile, and subsided into the chair which Flint drew up for her.

The afternoon was dark and stormy. The big room began slowly to fill with shadows. They seemed to steal out from behind the massive armchairs and heavy hangings, and to creep in from the darkening hall. The faces of the three women gleamed white in the dusk. A sudden dash of rain struck sharply against the window panes. For a moment there was no other sound. Then someone drew a long, fluttering breath.

Flint asked permission to have the lights turned on, and, at Evadne's bidding, Denis, who had been waiting at the door for further orders, drew the curtains and turned up several reading lamps.

"We will have the others, too, I think," said Flint.

The shadows vanished before the blaze of light which flooded the room, but the faces of the women still gleamed white and strange.

"May Denis wait for a few minutes, Mrs. Hurst? I may have something I want him to do," Flint said.

He was clearing a space on a table near him as he spoke. That done, he proceeded to lay out on it a number of articles which he took from a locked box. These consisted of a woman's glove, a fragment of charred paper, a sealed envelope, a laundry list and a pistol wrapped in a blood-spotted handkerchief.

"These are what we detectives call clues," he explained to Evadne. "I guess you think that I've been a long time hunting for the hand that shot down your husband. Like as not you think I haven't done anything.

"But I have, oh, yes, I have. I asked you ladies and Mr. Graham and Inspector Breitman to meet here this afternoon so that I might show you how far I have gone, and to get you to help me clear up one or two little points that puzzle me. I am going to try to reconstruct for you the scene that was acted here that night, and get you all to draw your inferences. That, I think, will help us to the truth. I will show you the actors; I will show you the clues we have found; and we will work the problem out together. For instance, here is a glove. That was our first clue. It is yours, isn't it?" He picked it up and handed it to Estelle.

She tossed it back to him with an affirmative nod, and it fell to the floor. Flint looked down at it with his crooked smile.

"Just where I saw it lying first; just where you dropped it when you came back here after your wedding, Mrs. Von Eulen," he said.

A murmur of surprise, of astonishment, ran crescendo down the room, culminating in a high, shrill note of indignant protest from Miss Smith.

"It's a lie!" she screamed. "She is not Mrs. Von Eulen. It's me is to be Mrs. Von Eulen. If she says she's married to him she lies."

Estelle leaned forward and laughed in the other's face. It was an evil laugh, devilish, Graham called it.

Flint bent over and whispered in Graham's ear. "They are both cats," he said. "One is a common or garden cat, and the other is a costly Angora, but they are both cats."

"What did you bring that woman here for?" Graham muttered angrily, his desire to have no unpleasant scene in Evadne's presence outweighing his interest in Flint's revelation.

Flint looked at him oddly. "I told you I was going to try a little experiment," he whispered back. "Set those two on one another and I think we'll learn something, Mr. Graham, though perhaps it will be different from what you think—or from what I think—for that matter. I'm playing a little piece on strings of human nature. Perhaps I'll strike the right key, perhaps I won't. If I do, something interesting may happen. Miss Smith is one of my strings."

The string was discordant. Miss Smith was soon on the verge of hysterics, goaded by Estelle, who, at the same time, was denying her marriage.

"But I have here a certificate of marriage between Estelle Hurst, spinster, and Carl Von Eulen, bachelor, of Donaueschigen, Germany," fairly cooed Flint. "The first of my little surprises I promised you," he said in an undertone to Graham.

Before he could say another word, Estelle was at his side, snatching at the certificate.

"Where did you get this?" she gasped. Her voice grew shrill and broke. "Carl had it—I gave it to him to keep. How did you get it? Tell me—tell me at once."

"It was found among his papers. He didn't have time to destroy them all," Flint answered. "I am obliged to inform you, ladies, that Carl Von Eulen, alias Brown, is at present under arrest."

"No, no!" cried Estelle. She sank back in her chair stunned as if she had received a physical blow.

Miss Smith, equally affected by the news, reacted to it characteristically. She passed the verge on which she had been hovering and became frankly hysterical. She cursed Estelle, she cursed Flint, she cursed herself.

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram. Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

ATWATER CIVIC BODY OFFICIALS TO MEET

Decide Question of Carrying Bridge Fund Campaign to City Council; Annual Election on May 11

Executive officers of the Atwater Improvement association will meet tomorrow night with two important business matters to occupy their attention. Further action by the association to assure appropriations for the proposed bridges at Glendale boulevard and Fletcher drive will be taken in the appointment of a special bridge committee.

This committee will carry on the campaign before the Los Angeles City Council to have the bridge funds question placed before the voters in June in the form of a bond issue. It is understood that the council bond issue committee is now considering the propositions affecting Atwater Park and will make definite recommendation to the council within a few days.

With refusal of the County Board of Supervisors to assist with county road funds, the construction of the bridges must come from the hands of Los Angeles city. An appropriation of $1,200,000 will be necessary for the work, $900,000 for the Glendale avenue bridge and $300,000 for the Fletcher drive span.

Annual Election

The executive officers will also take up the election of new officers at their meeting. The annual meeting and election of the Atwater Improvement body is scheduled for Monday, May 11. At the meeting of the association next Monday night, nominations will be in order. At that time the executive officers will report on suggested nominations, acting in the capacity of a nominating committee.

It was said today that Arthur M. Gilman, president of the association during the past year, will be the choice of the executive officers for re-election to the presidency of the organization. At a recent meeting of the association at the Neighborhood Christian church Mr. Gilman declared he would retire from active participation in its affairs after his present term expired. Friends of Mr. Gilman, representing all portions of the district, have been active in urging him to again accept the presidency, it was stated, and it is probable that, if nominated, he will consent to serve.

Women's Club To Elect

The newly-formed Atwater Women's Community Interest club will elect officers and perfect its organization at a meeting scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. V. Bacon, 3802 Revere street. All women of the community are eligible to membership in the club and are urged to attend the meeting, Mrs. Bacon said.

The women, who have endorsed the candidacy of E. E. Lampton for the Los Angeles City Council, are actively engaged in Mr. Lampton's campaign. Other matters of civic interest to the district will receive the attention of the organization.

Building Fund Is Aided

Members of the new Catholic parish in Atwater Park held a very successful card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fitzsimmons, 3450 Glendale boulevard, recently. Proceeds from the affair went to swell the building fund for the new church. Mr. Fitzsimmons and M. J. Curran formed the committee in charge of the program.

Contractor Buys House

Ray Fox, Atwater contractor, announced the purchase of the residence at 3215 Atwater avenue, from William Cordis. Mr. Fox and his family will occupy the residence in the future.

Missionary In Alaska To Lecture Tonight

An illustrated lecture will be given tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Glendale Presbyterian church by Rev. S. Hall Young, D.D., missionary from Juno, Alaska. Rev. Young is giving lectures in Southern California preparatory to a cruise to Alaska which will be taken in June. He has been a missionary from the Presbyterian church in Alaska for forty-seven years.

STRAWBERRIES

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—Carloads of Arizona strawberries which are coming into this market are slightly underselling the fruit from California. The local yield is light considering the time of year and San Joaquin berries are selling at $3.50 to $3.75 a case as against $3.25 for the Arizona product.

Japs Open First Air Mail Route To Public

TOKIO, April 22.—The first Japanese air mail service was inaugurated today when the Tokio-Osaka route was opened to the public.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

A Tax-On-the-Fat Controversy

My Dear Mr. (Shaw) President of the Fat Men's Club:

In a recent interview you granted the Boston Sunday Post, regarding my statement that it would be a good idea to tax fat people, you began by saying you think I don't like fat people.

You get me entirely wrong, Mr. President. I do like fat people. I like 'em immensely. There is no doubt that the great majority of them have sweet and merry dispositions. (Some one has said, I think it was Irving Cobb, that the fat man has to be amiable—he can neither fight nor run.) However, let me point out this fact: Fat folk are not merry because they are fat. The only relationship between fat and an amiable disposition is this: Those who have such a disposition are more prone to put on fat. The daily trivial annoyances do not upset them much and therefore they are not subject to the wear and tear of the nervous system which this worry would entail and which in turn would prevent a good appetite.

The native amiability of the obese, however, is usually lessened as soon as the weight reaches beyond a certain proportion. The jibes and inconveniences which you mentioned in your interview as coming your way, cannot fail in the long run to react unfavorably. Those who are overweight and reduce, become much more comfortable and the dispositions get back to their normal state of amiability.

Now I am going to differ with you also on your statement that the fat man (and of course we include fat women, too) are light eaters. Fat people are NOT light eaters. No one ever saw a fat person who was a light eater. (By the way, I'd like to attend one of your Fat Man's club dinners. I'll wager they're substantial!) It may be possible that they seem to eat little at mealtimes, but you don't know what stacks they tuck away between meals! At any rate, they must habitually eat more than is necessary for their needs; otherwise they would not have it to store away as fat.

I do not mean to contend that those who are overweight are always guttonous. Indeed, no. But it does not require very much over the needs to cause an accumulation of considerable proportions, sooner or later. For instance: Suppose one eats each day 125 calories of any food in excess of the needs. (One slice of bread, thinly buttered; a good sized chocolate cream; an extra inch on a piece of pie; a little more butter in the cooking; a cocktail, etc., are each around 125 C.) One-half of an ounce of fat is stored from that indulgence. In 365 days, that approximates eleven and one-half pounds gained! At that rate, in three or four years, one is eligible to your Fat Man's club.

I agree with you that some of the leaders in any community—those who are carrying the greatest burdens anr responsibilities both in the business and social life—are considerably overweight. But these same people would contribute a much greater service if they were normal weight; for excess weight does make for mental as well as physical lethargy.

You quote Caesar—"Yon Cassius has a lean and hungry look . . . . I would have men about me who are fat." You should have quoted him further—"You Cassius has a lean and hungry look . . . . HE thinks too much"! !! ?

I believe that taxing the fat would be a great public health benefit measure in that it would cause a national study of the question and a study of the question would disclose the fact that overweight is both preventable and curable. It would furthermore disclose that it is a forerunner of many serious disorders, notably diabetes, heart and kidney diseases. I believe that fat people would welcome such a tax because nobody wants to pay out money unnecessarily and nobody wants to be overweight. For this reason a tax would be an incentive to reduce. If there were a yearly reduction of any excess weight gained during the year, there would be no accumulations to the danger point.

I cannot close without telling you that I think that my editor who published with your interview that old picture of me taken when I was in the delicate condition of carrying 15 pounds excess weight—I'd just returned from a three months' visit to California—with the caption that Dr. Peters is no willow wand herself, is a thorough-going scoundrel. However, even at the weight I had when that picture was taken, I was a sylph when compared to what I used to be.

Yes, the reason I do like fat people and am devoting a large share of my time to remedying their condition is that I know from first hand that it is an unhappy state, mentally and physically.

Before beginning our canning with the old methods, it is well to see what the latest United States Government Bulletin on this subject has to say. Miscellaneous Circular No. 24 (which you can obtain by writing to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., and enclosing 5 cents), advises that all vegetables except tomatoes be canned only in a pressure cooper; but that the water bath canner may be used for fruits and tomatoes (which are more acid), if you desire.

Now, the question is, will housewives, who, in past years, have had good luck with all vegetables, using their wash-boiler as a home-made water bath outfit, go out and buy pressure canners, this summer? I do not think so. Of course the above-quoted government bulletin is dependable. But the average housewife cannot afford to buy new equipment on short notice, especially if she has had good results with equipment on hand.

So, during the coming months of the canning season, I shall give directions for using both the pressure canner and the hot-water bath wash boiler canner for all vegetables. This will satisfy the housewife who wishes to be doubly safe by buying a pressure canner; and it will also satisfy the little bride who would be able to do no canning if she could not economize by using her clothes-boiler as a canner—and "take a chance" that she would have as good luck as many other housewives have had in the past by canning all their vegetables with this homely equipment.

In using the wash-boiler outfit for the four most difficult vegetables to can (asparagus, peas, corn and beans—both lima and string. I should advise the use of only pint-size jars because the heat, in processing, penetrates more quickly to the center of these small jars than to the larger, quart-size jars. I shall also advocate using the Intermittent, or Three-Period Method for these four more difficult vegetables, rather than the One-Period Cold Pack Method, for this reason: Processing the jar for one hour should suffice to destroy all bacteria in the vegetative form; then, by cooling the jar rapidly to room-temperature and allowing it to stand overnight, opportunity is given for surviving spores to "sprout" into the vegetative form; after which the second hour-long period of processing will kill all of the young, tender cells which have just germinated from the spores; the third hour of processing catches newly germinated cells from any spores which may have failed to germinate within the first intermission.

Tomorrow—Requested Knitting Directions

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

PRETTY NOSES

A bad nose is a great affliction because there's very little one can do about it. A really very bad nose, a positively deformed one, can be made over by a facial surgeon, but this branch of surgery is not generally practiced yet, and few good men will undertake such work. During the war operations that were practical miracles were performed and many a man who went out with a bad nose came back with a better one, and a partly artificial face. The usual way was to graft the little finger bone to the face, in place of a damaged nose, a process that will not appeal to the most heroic beauty seeker.

Barring deformities, which must be treated through the advice of the family doctor, this much can be done by any woman anxious to improve the appearance of her nose:

The skin can be perfectly, faultnessly clear. This in itself would be a distinction; there are few noses that do not show enlarged pores around the nostrils. Use the blackhead paste, the formula of which often appears in the Chats; or, after washing the skin well with soap and hot water, apply a paste of laundry starch and cold water, letting this dry in for half an hour, and then washing it out with warm water. Either method takes up the oils and dirt that clog and enlarge the pores. Of course the digestion must be looked after, or no complexion can be good.

For the rest, you can practice the legitimate sort of deception every woman practices when she covers up weak points and emphasizes good ones. If the nose is badly shaped, comb the hair well over the ears and cheeks and slightly over the forehead, for this softens the outlines of the face so that the nose is less conspicuous. Only a perfect profile can stand hair brushed severely back.

C. K.—The blood purifier of sulphur and molasses is made by adding enough molasses to flour of sulphur to form a smooth paste. The dose is usually a teaspoonful three times a day for three days, and then a wait of two or three days before repeating the doses. Take for three more days, and rest for three more, after which there may not be any further need for the doses; but if there is, continue them. Your own condition will be the guide to the amount of purifier needed.

Have you a nice nose?

DYNAMITERS TO MEET ALHAMBRA

Battle Friday May Decide Possession Of Season Cup For Sports

By ROSS RUSSELL
Of The Evening News Staff.

When Coach Wolfe and his Glendale Dynamiters tackle the Alhambra ball tossers on the latter's field Friday, a battle royal may well be expected. Both teams are good and besides both are fighting for the season cup which will be given to the school making the best showing in the four major sports of the year.

Although Glendale won both football and track, the Moors took basketball and still have a bare chance to win if they take the baseball pennant and put the Dynamiters near the cellar in the final standing. Both teams have won their first games, the Dynamiters showing Monrovia a thing or two about the National sport by flopping them 4-1 last Friday, while the Moormen plunked the Covina Colts in a real game, 8-7.

Charley Smith will be on the mound as Wolfe's choice Friday, while Flinker, also a veteran of many baseball battles, will chuck for Alhambra. Elmer Muff and Plond are the two respective backstops.

Alhambra's victory over Covina was little deserved, however, as records show. The Colts made ten hits while the Moors made but six. Three errors at home plate in the seventh inning tied Covina's three-run lead and put the Moors in a position to win. The game was full of errors, twenty-six chances being boosted in the nine innings, Covina made fourteen of the errors.

Wolfe's team scored a clean-cut victory over Monrovia and will go into the game a slight favorite. This season's team knows its stuff and is capable of putting forth a good brand of baseball, provided they get started right.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 22.—No youngster ever had a better chance to spring at one bound to the dizzy heights of fame than has Al Corbett, the Cleveland featherweight, who will meet the European champion at the public auditorium in Cleveland tonight.

Mascart will receive $7500 for the bout and he seems to think it is a nice way to earn a piece of change. Corbett may convince him otherwise. Good judges of fighting form in the middle west who have seen Jerry Sach's protege in action say that this may happen.

Of course, the Frenchman, who has fought his way up to the top in Europe and in January turned in a two round knockout over Danny Frush—well known in Cleveland—is not understimated. But even so, the Corbett lad has a lot of backers.

He is just 21, lives in Cleveland and has been boxing for five years. He has had fifty fights and has won over half of them by knockouts.

Corbett was matched to meet Kid Kaplan but the featherweight king is sick at his home in Meriden, Conn., and so the boxing commission let the title holder off and gave Mascart the chance to take his place.

Word comes from the Pacific coast that Jack Dempsey has been high-hatting some of his old pals and that he is rebuilding his life along the lines of new relationships, mainly those having to do with the artistic life of the movies.

Since his title is a commercial asset, it is not likely that he will present it to some boxer, even if he has in his heart no intention of returning to the ring.

The other day the writer asked Mickey Walker what he thought of reports from the far west that Dempsey was out of shape and would take a year to get into condition for a hard ring battle.

"Well," smiled Mickey, "the champion must have gone back a lot in the few weeks since I left the coast."

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 22.—So far as the writer can gather from Yale sources, there is no strong interest felt by Yale football authorities in the announcement that Captain Vernon E. Prichard, former army football star and coach, will be transferred to Yale for work in the R. O. T. C. section.

Captain Prichard's ability is recognized by Ted Jones at its full value, but with his staff organized as it now is there would seem to be not much of an opening for the army man's services on the gridiron, even granting that he had the time and the inclination to take up this work as a side issue.

On the other hand, when the Yale football authorities come to know Captain Prichard, all the chances are that they will hardly resist the temptation to use him in some way, provided he is willing.

For of all magnetic men whom the writer has met Vernon Prichard stands high indeed. He radiates personality, is an officer and a gentleman of the highest type, and will prove an asset to Yale of highest value, even assuming he never goes to the football field save as a spectator.

No quarterback, not even that premier Notre Dame hurler, Dorais, was more formidable than Prichard when he stood back of the line, ball in hand, waiting for an eligible man to get clear.

If things so work out that Prichard's coaching services are made available at Yale it will not be unlikely that the war department in the future will receive more than a few applications from colleges where the R. O. T. C. course is installed for officers who in addition to their technical qualifications have won fame as players or teachers on the plains at West Point.

Spring Grid Practice Opens Monday, U.S.C.

Spring football training at the University of Southern California will be officially ushered in next Monday afternoon, when about 100 Trojan pigskin hustlers report to the new coach, Howard Jones, who succeeded Elmer Henderson.

The new gridiron strategist aims to waste no time in getting the team candidates accustomed to his style and system. He plans to continue spring practice for at least a month, the majority of the time to be devoted to new formations work and scrimmages.

TITLED HURDLER RACES SATURDAY

Lord Burghley of Cambridge Will Participate In Penn Relay Games

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 22.—America has known stevedores who could sing tenor, chorus men who could go into the smoking compartment and watch men who could smoke. Saturday it will see a titled baronet who can hurdle.

Lord Burghley of Cambridge university is due to arrive from England late today on the Homeric with the distinction of being the only athletic aristocrat to achieve notoriety in sports within the memory of man. The writer ventures one exception: The count of three-and-two, has been to baseball what the neck is to the collar. His lordship was delayed by the Homeric's unsuccessful attempt to rescue the Japanese vessel that sank off Nova Scotia. Perhaps the delay is an omen of what may follow.

Lord Burghley came to America to compete in the 120-yard hurdle event at the Pennsylvania relay games on Saturday. One believes his lordship may be slightly delayed in arriving at the finish. This is not idle surmise.

Strong Competition

Among the entries the titled visitor must face is Dan Kinsey, University of Illinois, who won the Olympic championship at a similar distance. On the occasion in question, Lord Burghley finished third in his heat behind Atkinson, South Africa, and Anderson, the American, but was shut out in the semi-finals.

Later the writer was present at Stamford bridge, London, when a team of American hurdlers outclassed the British in a trick relay race, but he doesn't remember Lord Burghley being selected as one of Britain's four best.

On the face of things the immediate future might seem to look a very dark black to the visitor; yet he may have improved out of all reason in the last six or eight months. The Pennsylvania relay team that raced Oxford and Cambridge at London recently seemed to be completely sold on his lordship's ability. He did 15 4-5 seconds shortly before the Americans' arrival.

Injured on Grid

Unless the football injury sustained last fall has impaired his speed, Kinsey will do 15 seconds if he has to. It will not be necessary, although Guthrie, Ohio State, and Charley Moore, Penn State, will race the champion right up to the wire.

Accompanying Lord Burghley is A. E. Porritt, the New Zealand sprinter now at Oxford. Porritt proved that he was one of the fastest men in the world at and around the century distance when he finished third behind Abrams and Scholz in the Olympic 100 meters, beating Bowman, Paddock and Murchison. He will start in the special hundred on Saturday and would be an odds-on favorite if he had given himself more chance to lose his sea legs. As it is, he has it in him to spread-eagle the field under any conditions. This gent can run.

Order Investigation Of Racing in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 22.—Reversing its previous action, the House of Representatives of the Florida Legislature today adopted a resolution ordering an investigation of horse racing and race track gambling throughout the state. The vote was 60 to 22.

Similar action by the Senate is required before the resolution becomes effective and an effort will be made to push it through that body at once.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The race in the American Association is shaping toward a right royal contest for the championship, similar to the battle of 1924, and perhaps even better.

The majors may brag about their good baseball and their stars—more about their stars, some of the time than about their good baseball—but when it comes to active competition and something worth a visit all the time the American Association seems able to put together championship contests that are as deserving of patronage as anything in the big leagues.

Already the customary shifting of positions in the double A has taken place. Louisville ran out in front to be succeeded by Indianapolis, and St. Paul has smashed an upward way into the first division. But such is the equalization of strength in the league that the holding of first place doesn't seem to amount to much, except as some clubs holds it last of all at the finish of the season.

The batting on the whole has been rather free, and the pitchers are not showing much for their training in the south. The Milwaukee club, which appeared to be a fairly strong team in Sanford, seems to have the hard luck of the circuit, because it has run into a 14 inning game with Indianapolis and a 13 inning game with Louisville in succession, both of which it lost.

Milwaukee is not much of a slugging outfit, but with its speed, will be a troublemaker if it gets any pitching.

On the Pacific coast they are running afoul of an upset which has all the managers guessing. Salt Lake is running away for the moment and that brings no joy to the circuit. Perhaps it will prove a good thing for the league however, as it will wake the Salt Lake fans up and provide better support.

Seattle, champion of 1924, is having a hard time getting under way. Los Angeles, which swung into second place in the memorable fight last season, is about as strong as it was, although it has had its share of hard luck as in the loss of Pittenger, who suffered an accident like that which befell Maranville of Chicago.

It is probable that Salt Lake will come back to the other clubs in the circuit, but a little more balance is needed in the second division to keep the race from getting too one-sided.

Little can be said about the possibilities of the International so far. Off-hand, it looks as if Baltimore will have more of a fight than last season.

Buffalo and Toronto have not yet settled to their stride, but both should provide some stiff competition. Rochester has shown ability to get out in front. It is anything but a weakling team.

Fort Worth is streaking out in the Texas league just as it has been doing. They will have to go hard to keep ahead.

Earl Sande Sets New Record In First Race

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 22.—Making his return to the saddle, following an accident at Saratoga Springs last August which almost cost him his life, Earl Sande yesterday afternoon piloted Sarazen, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's crack gelding, to victory in the Newark handicap, over six furlongs. Sande brought his mount home in record time for the track of 11 1-5 of a second better than the previous mark.

CATCHER RELEASED

"Butch" Byler, veteran catcher of the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League Baseball club, was released outright yesterday. He came to the club in 1923. Tom Daly being traded to Portland in exchange for him.

MRS. LOCKHART DEAD

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Mrs. Matilda Lockhart, wife of Charles Lockhart, president of the Seattle Pacific Coast league baseball club, died here yesterday.

LINCOLN WINNER IN HECTIC GAME

Rail Splitters Defeat Local Team 10-2 In Practice Tilt At Broadway

The Glendale Dynamiters yesterday lost a fluky game to the Lincoln Railsplitters on Broadway field, 10-2. The Lincoln boys hit Jensen hard and profited by many errors to score their many runs.

Pederson pitched fairly well for the Emancipators and seemed to baffle the local sluggers, letting them down with six bingles in eight innings. "Huli" Jensen, Glendale twirler, stayed in the box throughout the entire game and was hard hit most of the time. The score:

| | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | Tl. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Lincoln | 0 | 3 | 1 | 3 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 | x | 10 |
| Hits | 0 | 4 | 2 | 4 | 0 | 3 | 1 | 0 | x | 14 |
| Glendale | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | x | 2 |
| Hits | 3 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | x | 6 |

IX—Athletic Women

A few facts about the remarkable strength and endurance of women will perhaps encourage the opposite sex in regards to athletic activities. Pound for pound of muscle, the women seem to have more strength than men. When properly trained their endurance is phenomenal.

The greatest aerial circus performer in the world is a woman. Her feats on the aerial rings have never been duplicated by any man. She is the undisputed champion rope climber of the world, and the highest salaried aerial performer in the business. She holds the record for the one arm chin or pull up, having performed this feat of chinning the bar with one arm twenty-seven times in succession. She is also an accomplished dancer. She does not present the appearance of having any great strength, being very beautifully formed. The Ringling Brothers Circus bills her as dainty Lillian Lietzel, her weight being one hundred and five pounds.

The strongest person in the world for her weight is also a woman, who weighs 120 pounds. She has a record lift in harness of 3,500 pounds, only 500 pounds less than the lift made by Louis Cyr, the giant Canadian, whose weight was nearly 300 pounds, over twice the weight of Madame Farar, the strong woman.

I find that women learn to box, punch the bag, swim and become proficient in the Japanese art of self defense, jiu jitsu, much quicker than the average man. Almost all women and girls are delighted when they have the opportunity to take a few punches at a lively punching bag, a means of exercise that has one of the highest points to be considered of any means of apparatus exercisers.

ASSEMBLY TO VOTE ON GAS BILL TODAY

Follows Redistrict Measure In Lower House Today; May Be Passed

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.
Special to the Evening News.

SACRAMENTO, April 22.—With reapportionment on the floor of the Assembly today and the gasoline tax increase following at its heels, center of interest has turned to the lower house of the California Legislature.

After two futile attempts to amend Senator Arthur Breed's bill adding a cent levy on gasoline for new highway construction, the measure late yesterday was sent to the floor with a recommendation "do pass." It is believed it will pass the lower house in the face of strenuous opposition. If it does the governor will have to squarely face the issue of deciding on this means of raising revenue.

Should Governor Richardson sign the bill the oil companies are prepared to invoke a referendum, it is declared in their camp. This will delay any income for nearly two years from the increased tax and in the meantime the $5,000,000 from the general fund asked in Assemblyman Isaac Jones' bill, now before the Senate, will be essential.

Chairman Ill

Had Assemblyman Sidney Graves, Los Angeles, chairman of the committee, not been ill and unable to attend, the bill would have been tabled in committee, tally sheets revealed. The hand of Providence seems to be guiding the highway financing scheme back to Governor Richardson for final determination, it being rumored that, if the reapportionment bill passes, the increased one cent levy to finance new road construction also will get the required number of votes in the Assembly.

The Senate passed two bills by Assemblyman Frank Weller, Glendale, one strengthening the blue sky laws, requested by Corporation Commissioner E. M. Daugherty to curb oil stock frauds, and another permitting the Los Angeles county Board of Supervisors to call an additional $10,000,000 flood control bond issue to build a dam in Tujunga canyon. Trading on San Francisco harbor control and metropolitan water district bill, two big issues also facing the Assembly in its closing hours, is reported.

LEGION NOTES

The state Legislature has given its approval of the $5,000,000 endowment fund drive of the American Legion.

With the favorable action of the Legislature and the acceptance by Governor Richardson of the post as head of the California committee for the drive which is expected to bring in the $400,000 quota of this state, officials of the Legion are set to begin the work of collecting the fund early next month for the rehabilitation of wounded war veterans and for the care of World war orphans.

Colonel David P. Barrows, former president of the University of California, has consented to serve as general campaign chairman for Northern California.

Governor Richardson's appeal for the fund has been broadcast throughout the state by State Commander Nathan F. Coombs and State Adjutant James K. Fisk of the Legion.

The $20,000,000 farm and home loan act passed by the state Legislature will have the first place on the ballot at the 1926 general election, according to Frank C. Jordan, secretary of state, who has reserved the first space on the list of constitutional amendments for the veterans bond issue.

The farm and home loan act went through both houses of the Legislature without opposition. In the Senate the honor of presenting the measure was given to Senator Tallant Tubbs, youngest members of the upper house and a World war veteran from San Francisco.

Under the terms of the legislation passed the veterans will be able to borrow on home and farm purchases on long-term loans, all of which is to be repaid to the state, with interest.

Burbank Residents To Vote On Bond Issue

600 acre university site in that city, means that the school of International Relations, to be closely allied to the University of Southern California, will become a Burbank institution.

"Negotiations of the past month have clinched the university for Burbank," Larry H. Wood, leader in the movement to get the school, said. "With absolute assurance that Dr. von KleinSmid will bring the university here, we have asked that the bond issue be submitted to the voters. There is no question but that the bonds will carry, enabling the city to present the Benmar Hills site to the school authorities."

Bring Diplomats

The University of International Relations was incorporated for $6,000,000 about a year ago to carry on work in the field of international political activity. The university will be world-wide in its scope and will draw to Burbank distinguished diplomats from all parts of the globe, Mr. Wood said. Thousands of students in diplomatic work will attend the university, swelling its enrollment to proportions equal or greater than that of any other university in the west, he declared.

According to present plans, divulged by Dr. von KleinSmid today, the board of regents of the new university of which he is chairman, intends to commence building on the Burbank site within two years. Definite work on plans will be started before the end of 1925, Dr. von KleinSmid said.

"Burbank is an ideal site for our university," the U. S. C. president said. "We hope within the year to have some definite work in the field of international relations started at the Burbank campus. The first work will be along the lines of an institute of international affairs such as is now conducted at William college by its Institute of Politics. Outstanding men in the field of international law, commerce and economics will be brought here for a series of institute lectures."

The site offered for the new university at Burbank is the same one that city offered to the state for the University of California, southern branch. It was following the announcement of the choice of Westwood by the Board of Regents of the state university that Burbank made a bid for the new von KleinSmid school.

EAST NOW READY FOR TIME CHANGE

Daylight Saving Plan Set For Next Week In Larger Cities

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, April 22.—Next week Harry Lauder's old song "It's nice to get up in the morning but nicer to stay in bed," will take on new and poignant meaning to hundreds of thousands of workers. This is despite the fact that daylight saving changes of times, inaugurated during the war, seem gradually dying out.

Only a few of the larger cities will officially change their clocks, but the fact that some centers like New York, Chicago, St. Paul and Duluth will do so is sufficient to cause workers in hundreds of other towns to arise an hour early. The plan of setting the clock one hour ahead in summer has been abandoned in such places as Indianapolis, Columbus, St. Louis, Fort Worth, Houston, Kansas City, Omaha, Des Moines, Denver, Milwaukee, Birmingham, Atlanta and others.

The change has undoubtedly come about through opposition of the farmers. In some states it is made an offense against the law to have clocks in public places set on daylight savings time. In spite of this, however, a good many cities voluntarily adopt the change during the summer, simply opening banks, mills, factories, stores and offices an hour earlier than during the remainder of the year.

Philly In It

Philadelphia will operate its Bourse and banks and many businesses on the earlier time beginning next Monday although the clocks will not be changed. Mayor Magee of Pittsburgh has issued a statement "recommending" that the industries of that city take similar action.

Those engaged in brokerage businesses or dealing in large markets have consistently supported the change, since it prevented New York, Philadelphia and Chicago from "getting the jump on them" by an hour. But those dealing in markets from Denver west have been merely like-warm in their support realizing that an extremely early opening of their places of business would tend to reduce the number of their customers.

Rail Schedule

The railroads state through their passenger traffic representatives that they are little concerned as to whether or not any particular locality makes the change. Through trains have always been on standard time and never have been affected. The roads have become so used to handling the changes in time of suburban train schedules that absolutely no confusion is likely to occur whether daylight savings time is in effect or not.

Those who drive automobiles to work next Monday morning, will encounter changes much more confusing to them than the change in time. On that date the direction of street traffic by light signals will be altered so that there are but two signals, green to "go" and red to "stop." Formerly red was used only as a signal that the direction of traffic was to be changed. Orange was used to start north and south bound traffic and green to start east and west bound movement.

Complicated

This was found both complicated, confusing to strange drivers and expensive. Due to efforts of automobile manufacturers and police authorities to make the same signals standard everywhere, the light system here was reorganized to conform practically to the code used in the operation of railroads.

The effect of traffic regulation in large cities is being fully recognized as a factor in overhead costs of private concerns. It is sending hundreds and thousands of wholesale manufacturing businesses out of New York alone. Owing to congestion here in sections devoted to piers, terminals and warehouses, trucks are frequently required to wait for four to ten hours for opportunity to load or unload.

It costs from $19 to $28 a day to run a five ton truck here. There are close to 100,000 trucks operating in the city which are rendered idle by traffic congestion from 20 to 75 per cent of the time. The result of these conditions has been to shift factories and warehouses out of the metropolitan area, the firms moving maintaining here only offices and sample rooms.

Reading Circle Hears Prominent Educator

Mrs. E. R. Taylor, prominent for twenty years in California educational activities as head of the Glen Taylor school at Alameda, was speaker this morning at the meeting of the Mutual Benefit Reading circle at the public library. She recently returned from the Marietta Johnson school, Fair Hope, Ala., where she gave a course of lectures. She said:

"Education is developing the whole child, morally, physically, spiritually as well as mentally. Education is not fitting for life; it is life, and he must have his life while being educated."

Mrs. Taylor has been spending a few days in Pasadena. It was through the renewal of her friendship with Mrs. A. H. Brown, member of the Reading circle, that Mrs. Taylor consented to prolong her visit another day to speak in Glendale.

JARDINE IS LIKED IN CAPITOL CIRCLE

New Agricultural Secretary Fine Sportsman, 'Taking' Dawes' Place

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Dr. William Jardine, secretary of agriculture, whom everyone feels like calling "Bill" instead of "Doctor," is trying to put into Washington life some of the pep and color which has been missing since the Senate adjourned and General Dawes went hiking off to Chicago.

The general is expected back in town for a spell next week. By that time he will have delivered himself of two additional addresses—one up in Paul Revere's country, where there was a famous ride, and the other to newspaper editors and publishers in New York. The general expects to have something further to say of the Senate and will immediately come to Washington to get the reaction, for, like winter lingering in the lap of spring, a large number of senators are remaining here in the capitol, loath to quit the scenes of their earnest endeavors and their triumphs over the Silent Man of the White House.

Pinch Hits For Dawes

But all of this has nothing to do with Secretary Jardine. He is going ahead the best he can to keep Washington from feeling lonesome while General Dawes is not around. More has been written about Dr. Jardine since he took office on the fourth of March than any other member of the cabinet, not excluding the new attorney general, Mr. Sargent, who made such a spectacular entrance into Washington after the Warren incident in the Senate.

Secretary Jardine, who incidentally pronounces his name like the "dyne" in neutrodyne is a true sportsman of the cabinet. His days as professor in a big college have not robbed him of the love for the saddle and the great out of doors which was inculcated during his career as ranchman and cowpuncher. You can see that longing for the purple hills of the west every now and then in the new cabinet member's eyes and you know instinctively how much more comfortable he would feel in the two gallon hat of the cowboy rather than the silk topper of formal occasions in Washington. Secretary Jardine has the build of a great horseman, long and lithe and keen and the more or less English riding clothes that he wears about the purlieus of the capital on his horseback expeditions are but a sad sort of substitute for the "chaps" of the hard riding man of the west.

Physically Fit

Mr. Jardine is physically fit and as hard as nails all the time. His more or less classical environment of the past few years may have had some softening effect but it is not apparent to the naked eye. Maybe the softening has only been in the way of golf. Dr. Jardine loves the mashie and the driver almost as well as he does the horse and saddle. He steals off between hours at the department of agriculture and runs out to one of the golf clubs of the capital, but always makes up for these excursions to the links by working overtime the next day.

The good doctor is not what might be called an eminent golfer, but he can hold his own with all but a few of the men high in official life. He plays much the same sort of game as President Harding did and the first time he went over the championship course of the Columbia country club he turned in a rather snappy 107—which is by no means in the duffer class, even if winter rules still are in vogue, 'though the greens are velvet smooth.

Capital Likes Him

Washington likes Secretary Jardine even if sports for grown-ups are sort of frowned on at the White House. Washington also has discovered that Dr. Jardine officially is rated as an agronomist. Folks out in the farm country may know about agronomy, but it took a lot of people here in the effete east by surprise. They began to search their dictionaries and found that an agronomist is one who applies scientific husbandry, one especially skilled in the production of field crops. Therefore agronomy is used largely to differentiate between those farmers who specialize on crops and others who mix crops with the raising of animals.

After thoroughly going over the situation Washington has decided an agronomist is a very fine person to have at the head of the department of agriculture—he doesn't know much about goats and doesn't want to get any.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, April 22.—The bearish element in the market today turned its attention on the motors and industrials. Prices gradually fell to lower levels with occasional rallies. Industrial stocks made a good show of strength and these traders turned their attention to rail shares, which have been comparatively inactive of late.

Further declines of from 2 to 6 points in the motor and industrial stocks resulted from concentrated selling of Maxwell "B" and a few other stocks which have been moving upward at a fast rate in recent weeks.

Maxwell sold down to 71, for a total loss of 18 points from Saturday's high, after which it recovered to 75. The bears were not quite so successful with United States Steel and General Electric, but Baldwin fell to 109¼, only 2 points above the low of the year.

Norfolk & Western, Atchison, Frisco common and a few of the dividend rails led a strong movement in the railroad stocks in the early trading, based on the announced lease of the Virginia railroad to the Norfolk & Western and rumors that this was to be the first step in an important consolidation of transportation lines revolving around the Pennsylvania railroad. Shortly after the noon period, selling broke out in Union Pacific, Rock Island, Northern Pacific, Northwestern, Lehigh Valley and other well-known railroad stocks, with consequent declines of from 1 to 3 points. Here, too, recovery was fairly rapid and the bears were not successful in bringing out very much stock.

After the early irregularity, the wheat market recovered in good shape. May wheat advanced 4½c in Chicago, Kansas City and Winnipeg. Cotton was unsettled. Sterling exchange responded to reports of an early announcement of the British chancellor with respect to the resumption of gold payments in Great Britain.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was a leader in the oil stocks at the best prices for the movement. Independent oils were unusually inactive, as confusing reports of oil production and consumption reached the financial district. There was also a decided shrinkage in sales of copper, sugar, shipping and equipment stocks.

Maxwell Motors recovered nearly 7 points and sold above 78 in the last hour as a result of hurried short covering by bearish traders. A number of railroad and industrial stocks threw off the grip of the bears at the same time and closed at the highest price of the day. At 139 Cast Iron Pipe was up 7 points from the low price of the first hour; American Can gained 3 points, at 171. Frisco common was up 3, at 73½; General Motors up 1¾, at 74½; Radio up 2; Western Union up 4; Atlantic Gulf up 2½; General Electric up 3; Norfolk & Western up 3.

Call money was unchanged at 4 per cent.

Stock sales today: 1,255,900 shares; bonds $13,686,000.

SANTA FE REPORT

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—In presenting to the stockholders and the public the thirtieth annual report of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co., President William B. Storey, while calling attention to the fact that during the past year traffic was somewhat light and the net earnings smaller than for the preceding year, after all the company had a net operating income of $47,283,278 for 1924, compared with $46,362,271 in 1923.

A surplus of $21,372,359 was carried to profit and loss, making the total surplus to the credit of profit and loss on December 31, 1924, $187,419,332. In the report President Storey said:

"During the first six months of 1924, traffic was decidedly light, and net earnings of the company were small, being less than the interest and dividends. Notwithstanding this, it was deemed wise to carry out the program of additions and betterments and of maintenance which had been adopted at the beginning of the year, because the work was well organized, conditions were favorable, and the very lightness of traffic meant a minimum interference between its movement and the prosecution of such work. As a result, the railroad was in condition to handle the heavy traffic of the fall months economically, and at the same time most satisfactorily to its patrons, and net revenue from railroad operations of the last six months of the year would have more than offset the earlier losses if passenger traffic had not been substantially lighter than the preceding year. In common with other roads, it is found that automobiles and busses are taking quite a large amount of the company's passenger traffic."

The president tells of the company's plans to build a new branch line, 65 miles long, in the Lubbock territory of the plains country in west Texas. It also is stated that for 1925 the company has adopted 110-pound steel rails as the standard for the main track, and the program calls for the laying of 447 miles of the heavy steel this year, and 159 miles of 90-pound rails on other lines. The Santa Fe now operates 11,904.90 miles of railroad.

Charles R. Wheeler, former registry clerk at the Anaheim postoffice, was found guilty of receiving and concealing part of the $25,000 stolen from the mails at Anaheim in December, 1923, by a jury in Federal Judge James' court. Sentence will be imposed Friday, morning. The jury was out but twenty-five minutes.

Edwin T. Drug store proprietors of Los Angeles county who maintain prescription counters without licensed pharmacists will be subject to arrest, the state pharmacy board announced today when complaints were requested against a number of proprietors.

Trial of Leslie Triggs and R. O. Graves, charged with manslaughter and failure to stop and render aid to David Frasier on November 30, last, when he was struck by their machine at Alhambra, will be in the hands of a jury in Superior Judge Reeve's court today.

Senator Samuel M. Shortridge will address the Republican Study club Friday in the Philharmonic auditorium building. The club is a woman's organization but men have been invited.
